BRAND STATEMENT

Our Story in a Sentence

"Born and raised in Stuyvesant Town-Peter Cooper Village, we're not just your dog walkers — we're your neighbors. To us, pets aren't clients; they're family. And we can't wait to make yours part of ours."

Use this in full on the About page and in email sign-offs. For shorter spaces — social bios, Google Business — use the tagline: Big City Paws, Small Town Care.

LOGO MARK

The Happy Pup

A warm cartoon dog face with golden fur, natural dark eyes with white sclera, and a gentle happy smile. The teal circle background serves as the icon container across all placements.

Primary lockup

The icon and wordmark are always used together in this horizontal arrangement for website navigation, social profiles, and print collateral. The stacked variant (icon above wordmark) is used for hero sections and app icons.

Minimum sizes

96px — Desktop header 64px — Tablet nav 48px — Mobile nav 32px — Thumbnail
16px — Favicon

Clear space

Always maintain a minimum clear space of half the icon's diameter around the logo mark. Never place the logo on a background that reduces contrast below WCAG AA.

VOICE & TONE

How We Speak

✓ Do say

- Warm, personal, first-person
- Neighborhood-specific references
- Confident, specific service details
- Short sentences — neighbor talking
- “Your pup” not “the animal”

✗ Don't say

- Corporate jargon or buzzwords
- Overly formal or stiff language
- Generic “professional pet care”
- Promises you can't personally back
- All-caps or excessive exclamations

PHOTOGRAPHY

Imagery Guidelines

Always use real photos of the actual dogs you work with — never stock. Authentic, candid, natural light. City streets, parks, genuine moments.

The goal is for every photo to feel like it was taken by someone who genuinely loves dogs. Because it was.

Image checklist

- Natural light only — no flash or studio lighting
- Candid moments preferred over posed shots
- NYC settings: streets, parks, stoops, East Village
- Show the dog's personality, not just their appearance
- Never use filters that alter color significantly
